COMPUTER BUREAU Expansion To Wellington

A computer bureau, similar to the one in use in Christchurch since 1965, will open in Wellington towards the end of this year. The new bureau, to be known as Computer Bureau (Wellington), Ltd, will be closely associated with the Christchurch company.

The Christchurch bureau began with the backing of 10 South Island companies and now serves 24 firms.

The computer in Christchurch—an ICL-1902 machine—will be transferred to the new Wellington bureau and a new machine, an ICL-1902A will be installed in Christchurch.

The new machine, which will be leased, will have a greater capacity than the one it is replacing and three shifts over 24 hours are planned to cope with the demand on its services.

The foundation companies for the Wellington bureau are N.I.M.U. Insurance Company and United Dominions Corporation. Mr E. A. Crothall, chairman of the Christchurch company, will be a director of the Wellington company. A manager and staff of systems analysts from Christchurch have been assigned to the new bureau.
