

COMPUTER BUREAU New Company In Waikato

A new company, Computer Bureau (Waikato), Ltd, has been formed in Hamilton by a group of Waikato companies, to provide computer processing services for commercial firms and other users in the area.

It has an authorised capital of $100,000 and is linked with similar organisations in Christchurch and Wellington.

The shareholders of the company are the New Zealand Co-operative Dairy Company, Ltd, the Farmers' Co-operative Auctioneering Company, Ltd, James Aviation, Ltd, Firth Concrete Industries, Ltd, and Computer Bureau, Ltd, Christchurch.

An ICL 1902 computer will be installed at the bureau's premises in London Street, Hamilton, in August or September next year and staff to begin the development of the computer systems will be appointed from next month.

Two Christchurch men, Dr G. B. Battersby and Mr G. H. Perkins, have been appointed consultants. They are also associated with the other computer bureau companies in Christchurch and Wellington.

The directors of the company are Mr A. H. Woolven, general manager of the New Zealand Co-operative Dairy Company, Ltd (chairman); Mr S. W. Walkinshaw, secretary of the Farmers' Co-operative Auctioneering Company, Ltd; Mr D. McLeod, secretary of James Aviation, Ltd; and Mr E. A. Crothall, chairman of the Crothall Group of com-
